DEPARTMENTAL EXECUTIVE OFFICER PROGRAM

Indiana University Bloomington has selected five department chairs to serve as 2019-20 program participants for the Departmental Executive Officer Program (DEO), a leadership program offered through the Big 10 Academic Alliance.

Each year approximately 65 department heads and chairs from Big Ten Academic Alliance universities come together for a unique leadership development seminar. Topics at this three-day event range from conflict resolution and time management to faculty development, performance reviews, and group problem solving.

IU Bloomington Departmental Executive Officer (DEO) Program Participants for 2019-20 are:

- Diane Reilly, professor and chair of the Department of Art History
- Mary Beth Hines, associate professor and chair of the Department of Literacy, Culture, and Language
- Caroline Chick Jarrold, 1948 Herman B Wells Endowed Professor and chair of the Department of Chemistry
- David McDonald, associate professor and chair of the Department of Folklore and Ethnomusicology
- Joel Wong, professor and chair of the Department of Counseling and Educational Psychology
Diane Reilly

Diane J. Reilly is an professor and chair of the Department of Art History in the College of Arts and Sciences. She has published two monographs, The Art of Reform in Eleventh-Century Flanders (2006), and The Cistercian Reform and the Art of the Book in Twelfth-Century France (2018), as well as three edited volumes on eleventh- and twelfth-century art, sound, and history. She also co-edits the journal Gesta, published by the University of Chicago Press. She received her Ph.D. from the University of Toronto in 1999 after joining the faculty of Indiana University in 1998.

Mary Beth Hines

Mary Beth Hines is an associate professor and chair of the Department of Literacy, Culture, and Language in the W.W. Wright School of Education. She also co-directs the English education program as well as the ACP Pipeline project, and is an adjunct in the English Department. Her research interests focus upon issues of social justice, as they complicate the teaching and learning of literacies, and as they become entangled with cosmopolitan perspectives and practices in virtual and actual spaces. She is a strong advocate for language and literacy teachers and promotes practitioner inquiry as a way to counter deficit views of teachers and learners.

Caroline Chick Jarrold

Caroline Chick Jarrold is the 1948 Herman B Wells Endowed Professor and chair of the Department of Chemistry in the College of Arts and Sciences. She received her B.S. in chemistry at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, in 1989, and her Ph.D. in physical chemistry from the University of California, Berkeley, in 1994. After being a University of California President’s Postdoctoral Fellow at UCLA, she joined the Chemistry faculty at the University of Illinois, Chicago in 1997, and was there until her move to the Indiana University Department of Chemistry in 2002. Her research involves applying a combination of gas-phase reactivity, mass spectrometry, anion photodetachment spectroscopies, and computational chemistry toward issues of importance in energy and environment.

David McDonald

David A. McDonald is associate professor and chair of the Department of Folklore and Ethnomusicology in the College of Arts and Sciences. He is author of the Chicago Prize winning book, My Voice is My Weapon (Duke 2013), and co-editor of Palestinian Music and Song (Indiana 2013). He joined the faculty at Indiana University in 2008, and holds appointments in the Departments of Anthropology and Near Eastern Languages and Cultures. He received the PhD from the University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign in 2006. His current research examines the experiences of Palestinian Americans in the “War on Terror,” focusing on the prosecution of the Holy Land Foundation for Relief and Development. His research interests include performance ethnography, social theory, and the study of violence and trauma.
Y. Joel Wong

Joel Wong is a professor and chair of the Department of Counseling and Educational Psychology at the W.W. Wright School of Education. His research interests are in positive psychology especially the psychology of gratitude and the psychology of encouragement, Asian/Asian American mental health, and the psychology of men and masculinities.

He has co-edited two books on the psychology of men and masculinities: the APA Handbook of Men and Masculinities (2016) and the Psychology of Men and Masculinities (2017). He is a fellow of the American Psychological Association and of the Asian American Psychological Association.
